Frankin Reappraisal

The town listers have asked the LCCA to please notify our property owners about the reappraisal that has begun in the Town of Franklin. The State of Vermont has ordered the town to perform a town wide reappraisal due to the fact the Town's common level of appraisal (CLA) has fallen below the state standard of 80%.

The listers will inspect all properties in the Town of Franklin. They have begun by visiting the cottages and camps this summer; as residents are more likely to be available to allow entry into the property.

Listers and a contracted data collection person are visiting all properties at Lake Carmi. They began in mid-July. To perform a thorough inspection of the property they will need to enter the property. If you have questions or concerns about the process, please leave a message at the Town Clerks office, 285.2110. If you might have renters in the property, please notify them of your wishes concerning interior inspection.

President's Message

The work has begun on evaluating Lake Carmi for possible professional weed control efforts in the future. The firm contracted to conduct the evaluation studies has carried out the first step of the studies by identifying all areas of the lake where weed control efforts may be needed. We have not yet received a report, but expect to have it in the near future. Already, we have received a $500 donation from Robert & Ann Hutchins, of Lake Road, for the project. Thanks so much.

The next step will be a comprehensive study, identifying the specific areas and the varieties of weeds in each. Of course they are really trying to identify areas needing help with the growing population of Eurasian Milfoil. This weed is an invasive species that has been spreading in recent years. A volunteer committee is headed up by Peter Benevento and Ruth Ann Krayeski.

The weed harvester has been seen for many years cutting weeds and hauling them away, clearing the lake for better boating and swimming. This year, at the request of the LCCA and the town select board, the State approved expansion of the harvest area under state rules. Kyle Lothian is shown here piloting the big orange weed monster.

Treasurer Bob Baran reports excellent results on the 2010 membership drive. Some 220 members have joined for 2010-11. Those who have not yet paid their annual dues will receive a letter in the next month, reminding them. Helen Dever has once again done a great job heading up the membership volunteers. I thank Helen and all her helpers: Terri Carmen, Ron Danyew, Olin Samson, Cynthia Forsyth, Anita Rogers, Patty McDermott, Carolyn Rhodes, Ruth Ann Krayesky, Faith & Jim Pivirotto, Bob Baran, Bryant Reynolds, Larry Myott, Marion & Pete Benevento, Lee Abernethy and Ray Hendrickson. They have added up a lot of hours in this important work for the association.

The next board meeting (August 13) will be a budget meeting; as we look forward to 2011-- our 50th anniversary celebration year.

Summer Meeting Schedule

The last regular meeting of the LCCA, Inc. board of directors will be held on Friday, August 13 at 7:00 p.m., at Helen Dever's cottage, 105 Patton Shore Road.

Helen Dever reports the July 10 Franklin Yard Sale was a great success for the first time effort. Several LCCA folks brought items to donate to the sale raising a tidy sum of cash. Following the yard sale, was the annual meeting of the LCCA. It too, was a big success and well attended. As usual the food, from all parts of Lake Carmi was great. Helen Dever extends her thanks to all the volunteers of the day. It took many to make the yard sale a success and more to tear down the yard sale and set up for the annual meeting. She extends her thanks to volunteers who assisted: Carolyn Rhodes, Ruth Ann Krayesky, Hilda Hendrickson, Bob Rennie, Faith & Jim Pivirotto, Ray Hendrickson, Bob Lumnah and Terri Carman.

Peter Benevento gave an excellent report on the proposed weed control management project for the future. It was clear and concise and answered a lot of questions.

The 2011 annual meeting, celebrating the LCCA, Inc. 50th anniversary will be held on Saturday, July 9 at the Abbey Restaurant in Sheldon.

Special Event for Franklin Area

On Saturday, August 7 there is a special program at the Town Hall and Memorial Park in Franklin. It's a 100th anniversary rededication of the Civil War Memorial. The Memorial was purchased by Civil War veteran and local entrepreneur Carmi Marsh. He was a very success-ful businessman and farmer in this area and wanted his cohorts in the war to be remembered.

For Lake Carmi people, we should remember Carmi Marsh as the name sake of Lake Carmi. The Vermont Legislature, by decree, changed the name of Franklin Pond to Lake Carmi in his honor in 1910, enhancing the importance of the dedication of the monument.

Ceremonies will begin in Memorial Park at 6 pm, followed by a presentation by Howard Coffin, Vermont writer and expert on Vermont's involvement in the Civil War, at 7:00 pm. This program is co-sponsored by the Franklin Historical Society and the Haston Library with assistance from the Vermont Council on the Humanities.

2010-2011 Officers and Board Elected

At the July 10 annual meeting of the LCCA, Inc. new directors were elected to the board. Al Perry, Dick Davis and Terri Carman retired from directors positions. They were replaced by Bob Lumnah (2013), Anita Rogers, Guy Breault(2012) and Dwight Tatro(2011). Peter Benevento and Lee Abernethy were re-elected to three year terms. We welcome all the new directors and look forward to their participation on the board. The fourth new director filled a vacant position.

Officers were elected for one year terms: Richard Lang, President; Helen Dever, V.P.; Secretary, Ruth Ann Krayesky; Treasurer, Bob Baran; and Corresponding Secretary (Newsletter Editor) Larry Myott.

In Memory of Donald Mina

Donald passed away from complications of a stroke that occurred in March, on June 28. He was 65 years old. He had lived for many summers at 125 Dewing Road. His funeral was on July 10 in Enosburg Falls and he was buried at St. John the Baptist Catholic Cemetery in Enosburg. Private condolences can be sent to the family online through www.spearsfuneralhome.com .

Lighted Boat Parade for August

Organizer Helen Dever says, "What a spectacular event." The first boat parade (in July) was great for those on the Patton Shore, but due to high winds on the east side, the remainder of the tour had to be cancelled.

So mark your calendar for Boat Parade II, to be held on the evening of August 14. Boats are to line up at the south end of the Hammond Shore Road area (Burleson, Larivee and Myott area) to be prepared for parade at 8:00 pm.

Those who can't parade will have great fun cheering on the participants. You don't have to have fancy colored lights. Some in the July parade had flashlights and had great fun too.

If you do wish to decorate with those 12 volt lights that look so good on boats, they are available on line at several websites. They are available on several websites, be prepared: www.amazon.com, www.boatrope-lights.com, www.sailorsam.com, www.kelloggmarine.com, and www.hero-ledstore.com. Of course you can be innovative and come up with your own system of decorations/lights.

If you attended the Annual Meeting at the Town Hall and are missing some silver ware, Helen Dever probably has them. 1 bread knife, 1 cake server and one place setting. Call Helen at 285.6652

Late July at the Lake

A program sponsored by the Franklin Watershed Committee with lots of volunteer help, was a demonstration building rain gardens on Camp Road . Carolyn Rhodes is shown here continuing the work on her garden that will take water from road runoff, allowing it to soak into the garden and lawn areas. This garden and a similar garden at Vito Leuci's were built by volunteers on a Saturday. Bert Maynard assisted with the back hoe. To learn how to make a rain garden to help control runoff, contact Franklin Watershed Committee, Heidi Britch-Valenta, 285.2054.

Vtrans installed new culverts on Route 120 at the north beach area the last week of July.

The town crew has kept the lake roads in excellent condition this summer with regular road grading. The lack of downpours has helped too.

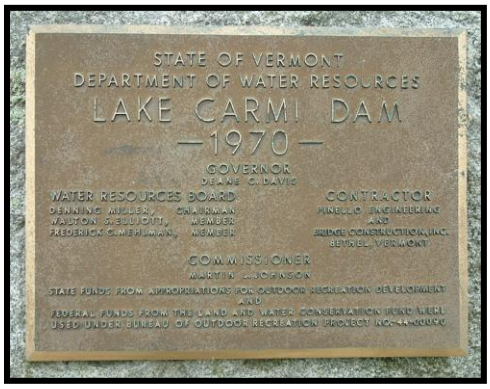
The Lake Carmi Dam

The Lake Carmi Dam was rebuilt on the site of the old mill that once sawed lumber at the north end of the mill pond. Funded by state and federal monies to enhance recreational opportunities at Lake Carmi, it was built in 1970. This plaque commemorates the construction.



Ever since it was build the dam has been under the control of the Vermont Agency of Natural Resources. Several volunteers have been designated over the years to maintain the water at certain levels. Since 2005 Arnold Byam, of Byam's Quick Stop fame in East Franklin, has been the dam caretaker. This unpaid position is appointed by the state to carry out the law of maintaining the lake level at 435 feet from the end of March until early September. This is done by placing planking stops in the dam in the spring and removing them in the fall, to a level of 434.5 feet. Byam is the only person authorized to adjust the lake level and he does it by State instruction.

Any questions, call the Vermont Agency of Natural Resources at 802.241.3454.

Cottage & Garden Tour 2011

After two very successful cottage and garden tours in recent history, the LCCA, Inc. will again produce a tour to show off the homes/-cottages and gardens at Lake Carmi. Of course volunteers are needed to participate by showing their beautiful places at the lake. Several volunteered for this year, but circumstances didn't allow it to happen.

Cottages are needed, sometimes they are just unique, others may be quite the comfort zone. It could be the architecture, the flower beds, the interior design, or something else. Owners that have been contacted in the past will be contacted again, now is the time to make plans for July 2011.

An informal start up committee has begun the planning, call Hilda Hendrickson at 285.6855, Helen Dever at 285.6652 or Larry Myott at 285.6718 to discuss what is expected and how you could help present Lake Carmi to a lot of visitors, who might just become your neighbors. Committee members are needed too, wouldn't you like to help?

July 4th Fireworks a Huge Success

With expenses of nearly $6,000 the "now" Lake Carmi annual fireworks on July 3rd is one of the more popular events in Franklin County. The event literally attracts thousands of spectators from a wide area, including Quebec. The numerous sponsors pay most of the tab, with many of them contributing $300 or more to the fund. Two sponsors were inadvertently left off the sponsor list in the July issue, thank you Gillian Senior and Byam's Quick Stop.

The finale alone had 282 shots in it, creating lots of cheers.

When you pay your dues next year you'll be able to make a contribution toward the fireworks show. When LCCA, Inc. planned the first fireworks presentation, four years ago, we didn't expect to bring the whole community and indeed the whole area together for this event. It has been a real joining force for Lake Carmi, Franklin and the entire area. Remember July 3, 2011.

Lake Carmi Calendar for 2011

The new Lake Carmi Photo Calendar is on the market, it is available locally at several different locations, including the Franklin General Store, The Franklin Telephone Company and Precious Things in Enosburg Falls. It's also on the LCCA, Inc. website (www.lakecarmi.org) by mail order.

It will be the best Christmas present ever for those with wonderful memories of Lake Carmi, past or present. There are 13 full color photos by local artists Carol Lyman, Larry Myott and Molly Corrow. Each month's photo represents a scene from Lake Carmi to go with the month, from cold frozen January to the warm recreation months, to a desolate December. There are descriptions of each and little verses about Lake Carmi. Also included is a full page of Lake Carmi facts and history.

This calendar is guaranteed to make folks homesick for our lake, even if they have never been here. We believe that this calendar is equal to the quality of the most famous Vermont calendars. All the memories brought forward remind you of home at the lake.

You'll have the phases of the moon, the holidays, and much more. At the same time you'll be helping out the Lake Carmi Campers Association, Inc. You can do your Christmas shopping right here, order as many as you like, but we only have 500, so order early. You can send in the form below to order yours, by mail. The price is the same as in the local stores, $10.00, but shipping and handling is $2.00 for one calendar, $3.00 for two. If you don't want to cut the order blank out of this collector's edition newsletter, simply copy the page or go to www.lakecarmi.org and link to this page. You can print it and then mail it in.

Franklin in Livin' Magazine

Franklin? Yes, it's part of Vermont. What's there? A beautiful lake, gently rolling farmland, and some wonderful people.

Lake Carmi, at three miles long and a mile wide, is the biggest thing in Franklin. Otherwise this is small town America; there's an independent telephone company, about ninety students at the award winning elementary school, and if the Memorial Day parade isn't timed right the front and back can meet in the down-town's single block. Franklin is the sort of town that Howard Frank Mosher's readers will recognize immed-iately; stunningly beautiful, very much isolated, and populated with some of the nicest people you'll ever meet.

When you mention Franklin village, the terms conjure up something infinitely larger than reality. It has a picturesque town green dominated by white steeples and a [Civil War] soldiers monument. Down the street there's a general store, where the residents of some nearly 300 camps regularly appear for provisions, and to visit our handsome community library.

The Haston, a brick and granite colonial Revival gem, celebrates its centennial this year [2007]. When it opened the building held the town clerk's office, community library, historical society, and an office for the customs inspector. The latter has moved to Morses Line, but all else remains. Even the border. To say Franklin is on the border is no exaggeration, some early settlers may have missed Canada by just a few hundred feet.

This may be small town life at its best. A death in the family means your countertops will fill with hot dishes, homemade pies, and Priscilla's fudge.

Major social events of the year are town meeting, the fireman's BBQ, and an ice cream social. Franklin is the sort of place where neighboring hasn't been lost, just ask the farmer whose neighbors came together to clean up the remnants of his machine shed just a day after it was destroyed by a freak storm. Community is important here, so much so that local residents built and operate an apartment complex for the elderly. It says something that the people of Franklin didn't want those who spent their lives in town moving away just because taking care of a home had become too much.

Community spirit runs deeper than the roots of the maple trees that dot our hills and fence lines.

Sugaring is a busy time in Franklin and a sign of hope. By then, winter's retreating and there's talk of folks returning from Florida. Those who don't return in a timely manner may discover they were elected cemetery commissioner at town meeting. Yet service is welcomed in Franklin, countless residents willingly surrender their evenings to attend school, select or library board meetings.

Franklin has a distinct sense of the past, and not just because most of the housing stock has been around for more than a hundred years. The historical society maintains a log cabin brimming with country furniture and rural artifacts. It's amazing what's in that little building. Franklin people have been extremely generous over the years, but that's their nature.

If you're looking for night life, I can't recommend Franklin. If you'd like to rub elbows with some good people at the next chicken pie supper, we'd be glad to have you.

Brian Rainville has spent the better part of his life in Franklin, he lives at Morses Line on the family farm, when he isn't in Randolph, where he teaches at the high school. He is still very active in various aspects of life in Franklin. This article appeared in Vermont Livin' in 2007, it is reprinted here with permission of the magazine and the author. Thanks to Carol Lyman for the photo of the Franklin Telephone Company office.

Tigger is Missing

Has anyone seen Tigger? He moved to 125 Dewing Road in June, on July 13 he went out and hasn't been seen since. Tigger was formerly employed as the St. Albans Town Cat, she recently retired to move to Lake Carmi with her family. She turned 13 on July 4th. If you have seen Tigger, call Kathy Middlemiss at 285.6229 or cell at 802.752.0405.

2011 Ice Out Contest

Again, it' a sure sign that winter will come, the LCCA Ice Out Contest was announced at the association annual meeting in July. President Dick Lang spoke of the great success of the contest and delivered tickets to members to sell. Tickets are available now from Jim Pivirotto of Black Woods who serves as chair of the annual event.

Contest proceeds go to the water quality pro-gram. This program will be overtaxed in the next few years if the weed control program comes into play, as anticipated by the board of directors. A weighted device is placed on the ice, in an undisclosed location, it is connected to an electric clock by rope. When the device drops through the ice, the clock is unplugged determining the exact time of the "ice out."

Maria Abernethy, left, presents the 2010 ice out winner with $800 in the above photo. Winner Dianne Dellanno was just six minutes off the actual time. Maria sold the winning ticket to her neighbor in Massachusetts. Maria and her husband Craig are Lake Carmi residents on the Patton shore, having recently bought the Tittemore camp. Craig's parents are Lee and Sally Abernethy of Vic's Crossing.

Contact Jim Pivirotto (285.6590) for tickets to sell to your visitors during the rest of the season and throughout the winter. Tickets only cost one dollar per guess, you can enter as many times as you like. It's a great fund raiser and you have fun too. He can also be reached by email at: blackwoodsvt@yahoo.com.

Franklin Watershed Committee

See related article on page 4, ref. Carolyn Rhodes.

Laura Killian, of UVM Extension, has provided the technical leadership for our Lake Carmi rain garden project, helping both parties determine the size, depth, soil improvements and plants best suited for the site. The work load was made significantly lighter with the help of Bert Maynard and the Franklin Telephone Company, who brought their backhoe and his expertise to excavate the sites. An excavator isn't necessary for an installation, but will be particularly helpful on these lakeshore sites that are extremely compacted. Other volunteer assistance came from the graduates and interns of the UVM Extension Master Gardener Program.

Volunteers and visitors at the event were provided a free BBQ lunch and ice cream cones, made possible through the generosity of Ben and Jerry's Ice Cream, The Franklin General Store, and Hannaford Supermarkets. Participants also receive a free copy of the detailed instructions contained within The Raingarden Manual and the The Shoreline Stabilization Handbook which have been provided by the Northwest Regional Planning Commission.

The FWC enthusiastically supports this type of project because storm water runoff contributes to the phosphorus loading of the lake, fueling algae blooms and plant growth. A 2009 study titled, Examining Shorelines, Littorally, by Kellie Merrell, Eric A. Howe and Susan Warren, of the Department of Environmental Conservation, highlighted the significant value of lakeshore buffer zones that reduce runoff and improve water quality.

It is worth noting that one acre of land receives approximately 27,154 gallons of water per inch of rainfall (Source: USGS). In undeveloped areas like forests or fields, the rain water can permeate the soil, aided by the root structures of trees and other plants. The percolation of the rain water through the soil has many benefits: it replenishes groundwater, provides water for plants, and filters sediment and pollutants that may be present in storm water runoff, before the runoff enters surface waters. These benefits don't occur when rain falls on impervious surfaces such as roofs, roads, driveways, parking lots, and lawns. A rain garden allows runoff to slowly filter into the ground, leaving nutrients behind to be utilized by the plants. It also reduces the potential for erosion which means less phosphorus laden soil entering the lake.

Thank you Sam deWahl, you did a great job as an Americorps volunteer for the Franklin Watershed Committee. We have enjoyed working with you and graciously accept your talents. Your efforts and abilities were of great significance to Lake Carmi and the entire watershed. Hopefully you'll be back. Best of luck for success at McGill University this fall!

The Franklin Watershed Committee (FWC) is a duly incorporated, IRS 501(c)(3) tax exempt, non-profit organization whose goal is to improve the healthful integrity of the Franklin Watershed and its principle body of water, Lake Carmi. Article by Heidi Britch-Valenta.
